I. PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 4227, the Mapping Accuracy Promotes Services Act” or “MAPS Act”, was introduced on September 6, 2019, by Reps. McEachin (D-VA), Long (R-MO), Loebssack (D-IA), and Latta (R-OH), and referred to the Committee on Energy and Commerce. To ensure that the Federal Communications Commission (FCC or Commission) and the public have access to accurate and granular information regarding the availability of broadband, the MAPS Act specifies that it is unlawful for a person to willfully, knowingly, or recklessly submit inaccurate information about the availability or quality of service of broadband.

II. BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

The FCC began collecting subscription and connection data for broadband and telephone service using Form 477 in 2000.¹ Since then, these data have become the primary source for many FCC actions, including its publication of statutorily mandated reports to Congress regarding competition among certain service providers, and the availability of advanced communications capability.² The FCC has also used these data to update its universal service policies, including by excluding certain areas from receiving support.³

In recent years, the FCC's efforts at mapping the availability of broadband internet access service have been widely criticized. A key part of the failures of the Commission's mapping process relates to inaccurately submitted data. In December of 2018, the FCC opened an investigation into whether one or more major carriers violated the Mobility Fund Phase II reverse auction's mapping rules by submitting inaccurate mapping data,⁴ and in May of 2019, one company erroneously claimed to be serving millions more people than it was in fact serving.⁵

The Committee has requested but not received from the Director of the Congressional Budget Office a statement as to whether this bill contains any new budget authority, spending authority, credit authority, or an increase or decrease in revenues or tax expenditures.

X. DUPLICATION OF FEDERAL PROGRAMS

XIII. ADVISORY COMMITTEE STATEMENT

The legislation does not create any new Federal advisory committee within the meaning of section 5(b) of the Federal Advisory Committee Act.

XIV. APPLICABILITY TO LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

The Committee finds that the legislation does not relate to the terms and conditions of employment or access to public services or accommodations within the meaning of section 102(b)(3) of the Congressional Accountability Act.

XV. SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS OF THE LEGISLATION

Section 1. Short title

Section 1 designates that the short title may be cited as the “Mapping Accuracy Promotes Services Act” or “MAPS Act”.

Sec. 2. Definitions

Section 2 provides definitions for the terms “broadband internet access service”, “Commission”, “provider”, and “quality of service”.

Sec. 3. Enforcement

Section 3 specifies that it is unlawful for a person to willfully, knowingly, or recklessly submit inaccurate information about the availability or quality of service of broadband. The Committee recognizes that information and data submitted by providers may contain minor mistakes. Therefore, the standard set forth in this provision, including the word “recklessly”, is not intended to apply to providers who submit information that contains unintentional errors, minor mistakes, small omissions, and small overstatements. Instead, the focus is on materially inaccurate information that will have a significant impact on the Commission's collection and use of the information and data under this Act.

There are no changes to existing law made by the bill H.R. 4227.
